Lady Nagant was picked up by the HPSC at a young age, informed about all the good she could do working with the HPSC using her unique, powerful Quirk, probably much like Hawks:

Her role within the HPSC eventually became that of a trained assassin. She was taught to keep the status quo, so that many other people can view the positive image of Hero Society, just like she saw as a child:

Eventually, she was pushed to the edge. Tired of propping up this false image to the people, even questioning the HPSC's methods to the President himself. Then, the President threatened her death for her resolve even so much as wavering.

I'M SORRY.
I'M SORRY.
